SPECIALIZING MASTER IN

INTERIOR DESIGN

XX EDITION – MARCH 2023

Interiors can be viewed as places where people relate to one another. They can be designed to play host to any human activity and give shape to it in the process. Indoor environments communicate with their users by involving them in physical, emotional, and social terms. Interior design is one of the most dynamic areas in the field of design as a whole. This area of endeavor now includes and reaches beyond the traditional definition of designing architecture's intimate elements. And the change has had direct effects on the profession of interior designer.

TRAINING OBJECTIVES

This Specializing Master is devoted to those who wish to specialize in planning interiors, from large public spaces to private areas, from offices to places for entertaining. At the end of the Specializing Master, students will have acquired a strategic vision of the project, the method, and the technical skills they will need to work as qualified professionals in the field.

MID is a complete postgraduate training program that shares the experience of two of the most important Italian educational contexts.

DIDACTIC PLAN

The Specializing Master, oriented toward training professionals and career building, provides an amalgam of theory, experimental research, and design tasks. Practical skills are consolidated during topical project work that deals with producing, promoting, and planning spaces, services, and equipment. Learning takes place through a balanced mixture of general training, lectures, project work, and internship.

General Training

These units of introductory and specialist teaching provide tools and skills needed for designing.

Seminars and Lectures

At these encounters, students are brought into contact with inside witnesses to the profession: designers, enterprises, trade groups, and journalists.

Workshop

These simulations develop design skills. Topics include: producing and promoting an environment, its services, and the equipment with which it is furnished.

Internship

This training internship of about three months at design studios or companies enables students to transfer the skills acquired in class to a professional setting.
